Case No. _____

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

1 Plaintiff Philip Golubowski (“Plaintiff”) makes the following allegations, individually and 2 on behalf of all others similarly situated, by and through Plaintiff’s counsel, upon information and 3 belief, except as to those allegations concerning Plaintiff, which are alleged upon personal 4 knowledge. Plaintiff’s information and belief are based upon, inter alia, counsel’s investigation, 5 which included, among other things, review and analysis of: (i) regulatory filings made by 6 Robinhood Markets, Inc. (“Robinhood” or the “Company”) with the United States Securities and 7 Exchange Commission (“SEC”); (ii) press releases and media reports issued by and disseminated 8 by the Company; and (iii) analyst reports, media reports, and other publicly disclosed reports and 9 information about the Company. Plaintiff believes that substantial evidentiary support will exist 10 for the allegations set forth herein after a reasonable opportunity for discovery.

11 NATURE AND SUMMARY OF THE ACTION

12 1. Plaintiff brings this federal class action under §§11, 12, and 15 of the Securities Act 13 of 1933 (“Securities Act”) against (i) Robinhood, (ii) certain of the Company’s senior executives
14 and directors who signed the Registration Statement, effective July 28, 2021, issued in connection 15 with the Company’s initial public offering (the “IPO” or the “Offering”), and the underwriters of 16 the Offering. Plaintiff alleges that the Registration Statement and Prospectus (filed with the SEC 17 on July 1, 2021 and July 30, 2021, respectively), including all amendments thereto, contained 18 materially incorrect or misleading statements and/or omitted material information that was 19 required by law to be disclosed. Defendants are each strictly liable for such misstatements and 20 omissions therefrom (subject only to their ability to establish a “due diligence” affirmative 21 defense) and as so liable in their capacities as signers of the Registration Statement and/or as an 22 issuer, statutory seller, and/or offeror of the shares sold pursuant to the Offering.

23 2. Robinhood Markets, Inc. is a financial services company headquartered in Menlo 24 Park, California, known for pioneering commission-free trades of stocks, exchange-traded funds 25 (“ETFs”) and cryptocurrencies via a mobile app.

26 3. On or about July 30, 2021, Robinhood conducted its IPO, offering 55 million shares 27 of its common stock to the public at a price of $38 per share (the “Offering Price”) for anticipated 28 proceeds of over $2 billion.

1 4. According to the Offering Documents, Robinhood is a “safety-first company” with 2 a “radical customer focus.” It claims to be committed to: (1) “quality execution,” supposedly 3 “performing regular and rigorous reviews of the execution quality [] customers receive;” 4 (2) maintaining “high security standards” to keep customers’ accounts safe; and (3) providing 5 “dedicated support,” to customers to resolve their issues swiftly. According to the Offering 6 Documents, these commitments, its “fresh, people-centric approach,” and “delightful, engaging 7 customer experience,” has led Robinhood to build “deep, loyal customer relationships” and has 8 positioned the Company well to “continue attracting new people to [the] platform” and “accelerate 9 [] growth.”

10 5. Unbeknownst to investors, however, these representations (and others discussed 11 herein) were materially inaccurate, misleading, and/or incomplete because they failed to disclose 12 that, at the time of the IPO, Robinhood’s revenue growth was experiencing a major reversal, with 13 transaction-based revenues from cryptocurrency trading serving only as a short-term, transitory 14 injection, masking what was actually stagnating growth. In addition, the Company’s “significant 15 investments” in enhancing the reliability and scalability of its platform were patently inadequate 16 and/or defective, exposing Robinhood to worsening service-level disruptions and security 17 breaches, particularly as the Company scaled its services to a larger user base.

18 6. As these true facts emerged after the Offering, the Company’s shares fell sharply.
19 By the commencement of this action, Robinhood’s shares traded as low as $17.08 per share, 20 representing a decline of over 55% from the Offering Price.

21 7. By this action, Plaintiff, on behalf of himself and other members of the Class 22 (defined below) who also acquired Robinhood’s shares pursuant and traceable to the Offering, 23 now seeks to obtain a recovery for the damages suffered as a result of Defendants’ violations of 24 the Securities Act, as alleged herein.

25 8. The claims asserted herein are purely strict liability and negligence claims. Plaintiff 26 expressly eschews any allegation sounding in fraud.

27
28

1 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2 9. The claims asserted herein arise under and pursuant to §§11, 12(a)(2), and 15 of the 3 Securities Act, 15 U.S.C. §§77k, 77l(a)(2), and 77o, respectively.

4 10. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant to 28 5 U.S.C. §§1331 and §22 of the Securities Act, 15 U.S.C. §77v.

6 11. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391(b) because the acts and 7 transactions giving rise to the violations of law complained of occurred, in part, in this District, 8 including the dissemination of false and misleading statements into this District, certain 9 Defendants reside and/or transact business in this District, and the Company maintains its 10 corporate headquarters in this District.

11 12. In connection with the acts, transactions, and conduct alleged herein, Defendants 12 directly and indirectly used the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, including the 13 United States mail, interstate telephone communications, and the facilities of a national securities 14 exchange.

15 13. Divisional Assignment: This action should be assigned to the San Francisco 16 Division of this Court, as the Company is headquartered in San Mateo County, California, under 17 Local Rule 3-2(d).

19 business in this District.

20 43. Defendants listed in ¶¶26-42 are collectively referred to herein as the “Underwriter 21 Defendants.”

22 44. Pursuant to the Securities Act, each Underwriter Defendant is liable for the 23 materially inaccurate, misleading, and incomplete statements in the Offering Documents. In 24 addition, although not an element of Plaintiff’s claims and an issue on which each Underwriter 25 Defendant bears the burden of proof to the extent it seeks to assert it as an affirmative defense, no 26 Underwriter Defendant conducted an adequate due diligence investigation in connection with the 27 matters alleged herein and will accordingly be unable to establish a statutory “due diligence” 28

1 affirmative defense under the Securities Act. Each Underwriter Defendant committed acts and 2 omissions that were a substantial factor leading to the harm complained of herein.

3 45. Each Underwriter Defendant named herein is an investment banking firm whose 4 activities include, inter alia, the underwriting of public offerings of securities. As the underwriters 5 of the IPO, the Underwriter Defendants earned lucrative underwriting fees.

6 46. As underwriters, the Underwriter Defendants met with potential investors in the 7 IPO and presented highly favorable, but materially incorrect and/or materially misleading, 8 information about the Company, its business, products, plans, and financial prospects, and/or 9 omitted to disclose material information required to be disclosed under the federal securities laws 10 and applicable regulations promulgated thereunder.

11 47. Representatives of the Underwriter Defendants also assisted Robinhood and the 12 Individual Defendants in planning the IPO. They further purported to conduct an adequate and 13 reasonable investigation into the business, operations, products, and plans of the Company, an 14 undertaking known as a “due diligence” investigation. During the course of their “due diligence,” 15 the Underwriter Defendants had continual access to confidential corporate information concerning 16 the Company’s business, financial condition, products, plans, and prospects.

17 48. In addition to having access to internal corporate documents, the Underwriter 18 Defendants and/or their agents, including their counsel, had access to Robinhood’s management, 19 directors, and lawyers to determine: (i) the strategy to best accomplish the IPO; (ii) the terms of 20 the IPO, including the price at which Robinhood’s common stock would be sold; (iii) the language 21 to be used in the Offering Documents; (iv) what disclosures about Robinhood would be made in 22 the Offering Materials; and (v) what responses would be made to the SEC in connection with its 23 review of the Offering Materials. As a result of those constant contacts and communications 24 between the Underwriter Defendants’ representatives and Robinhood’s management, directors, 25 and lawyers, at a minimum, the Underwriter Defendants should have known of Robinhood’s 26 undisclosed then-existing problems and plans, and the Offering Document’s materially inaccurate, 27 misleading, and incomplete statements and omissions, as detailed herein.

28

1 standards” to keep customers’ accounts safe; and (3) providing “dedicated support,” to customers 2 to resolve their issues swiftly. It also claims to have “made, and continue to make, significant 3 investments designed to enhance the reliability and scalability of [its] platform and operations as 4 well as [its] customer support functions.” Together, according to the Offering Documents, these 5 efforts and commitments, its “fresh, people-centric approach,” and “delightful, engaging 6 customer experience,” has led Robinhood to build “deep, loyal customer relationships” and has 7 positioned the Company well to “continue attracting new people to [the] platform” and “accelerate 8 [] growth.”

9 55. With respect to Robinhood’s growth, the Offering Documents applaud the increase 10 observed in the Company’s transaction-based revenue in the lead up to the IPO. According to the 11 Offering Documents, Robinhood earned over $720 million in transaction-based revenue by year 12 end 2020, which was four times greater than what it achieved the prior year and reported over $420 13 million in transaction-based revenue in just the first quarter of 2021 alone, setting up 2021 to be a 14 record year.

15 56. The Offering Documents also highlighted the growth observed in certain key 16 performance indicators, to support the notion that the Company’s financial health was strong at 17 the time of the IPO (and would remain strong well into the future). Among other things, the 18 Offering Documents flaunted Robinhood’s “Net Cumulative Funded Accounts,” which were 12.5 19 million and 18 million for FY20 and 1Q21, respectively, “Monthly Active Users” (MAU), which 20 were 11.7 million and 17.7 million for FY20 and 1Q21, respectively, and Average Revenues Per 21 User (ARPU), which equaled $108.90 and $137.00 for FY20 and 1Q21, respectively. The 22 Offering Documents also highlighted Robinhood’s “Assets Under Custody” (AUC), which 23 equaled nearly $63 billion and over $80 billion for FY20 and 1Q21, respectively, noting in 24 particular how cryptocurrencies comprised a significant portion of Robinhood’s AUCs in the lead 25 up to the IPO, rising from over $414 million in FY19, to over $3.5 billion by year end 2020, and 26 a remarkable $11.6 billion in the first quarter of 2021 alone.

27 57. The Offering Documents, however, were false and misleading and omitted to state 28 that, at the time of the Offering, Robinhood’s revenue growth was, in fact, experiencing a major

1 reversal, with transaction-based revenues from cryptocurrency trading serving only as a short-2 term, transitory injection, effectively masking what was stagnating growth. Further, that the 3 Company’s “significant investments designed to enhance the reliability and scalability of [its] 4 platform” were patently inadequate and/or defective, which exposed the platform to worsening 5 service-level disruptions and security breaches, particularly as the Company scaled its services to 6 a larger user base.

7 58. Defendants were required to disclose this material information in the Offering 8 Documents for at least three independent reasons. First, SEC Regulation S-K, 17 C.F.R. §229.303 9 (Item 303), required disclosure of any known events or uncertainties that at the time of the Offering 10 had caused, or were reasonably likely to cause, Robinhood’s disclosed financial information not 11 to be indicative of future operating results. At the time of the Offering, Robinhood possessed 12 information showing that its revenue growth was experiencing a major reversal, with transaction-13 based revenues from cryptocurrency transactions serving as a one-time, transitory injection, 14 effectively masking what was in fact another quarter of lackluster growth, and, further, that the 15 investments made to enhance the reliability and scalability of the platform, particularly as the 16 platform continued to grow, were patently insufficient, exposing Robinhood to service-level 17 technical issues and data security breaches that disrupted users’ ability to access their accounts 18 and/or retain control over their personal information, which, as a result, negatively impacted the 19 Company’s ability to generate revenue. These undisclosed negative events and trends were likely 20 to (and in fact, did) materially and adversely affect Robinhood’s financial state and rendered the 21 disclosed results and trends in the Offering Documents misleading and not indicative of the 22 Company’s future operating results.

23 59. Second, SEC Regulation S-K, 17 C.F.R. §229.105 (Item 105), required, in the 24 “Risk Factor” section of the Offering Documents, a discussion of the most significant factors that 25 make the offering risky or speculative, and that each risk factor adequately describe the risk.
26 Robinhood’s discussion of risk factors did not adequately describe the risk posed by the 27 Company’s deficient efforts to enhance the reliability and scalability of its platform, which, in turn, 28 impacted customers’ ability to access their accounts, execute transactions, and control their

1 personal information, and the negative impact such was already having (or would have) on 2 Robinhood’s business, nor the other already occurring negative results and trends, nor the likely 3 and consequent materially adverse effects on the Company’s future results, share price, and 4 prospects.

5 60. Third, Defendants’ failure to disclose the aforementioned material information 6 rendered false and misleading the Offering Documents’ many references to known risks that, “if” 7 occurring “might” or “could” affect the Company. As the Company eventually revealed, these 8 “risks” had already materialized at the time of the Offering.

9 B. Events and Disclosures Following the Offering

10 61. On October 26, 2021, after the markets closed, Robinhood reported its third quarter 11 2021 financial results, revealing that its total net revenue for the period between July 1, 2021
12 through September 30, 2021 — the same period during which the Company conducted its IPO — 13 came in at $365 million, badly missing analyst estimates by nearly $73 million, and declines in its 14 monthly active users (“MAUs”), funded accounts, assets under custody (“AUC”), and average 15 revenue per user (“ARPU”). Robinhood also disclosed that third-quarter transaction-based 16 revenue from cryptocurrency trading, which in the lead up to the IPO had been the bulk of the 17 Company’s revenues, was a measly $51 million, staggeringly below the $233 million Robinhood 18 earned from crypto trading in the second quarter. The proportion of Robinhood’s cryptocurrency 19 transaction-based revenue generated by Dogecoin alone fell 40% in Q3, with Robinhood only 20 generating $20.4 million in Q3 compared to ~$144.5 million in Q2. At the same time, Robinhood’s 21 net losses skyrocketed from $11 million to $1.32 billion due to a remarkable $1.24 billion stock-22 based compensation expense that was tied to the stock’s post-IPO performance, and its initial rally 23 – which boosted its shares to an all-time high of $85 a share on August 4, 2021 and triggered a 24 massive payout to Defendants Tenev and Bhatt. To make matters worse, Robinhood also guided 25 for “less than $1.8 billion” in revenue for the full year, implying a maximum 85% growth, which 26 fell well short of analyst expectations of 111%.

27 62. Analysts immediately took note with those at J.P. Morgan, for example, 28 downgrading their price target and characterizing the Company’s trading revenue as a 1 “disappoint[ment],” noting in particular how “equity trading was particularly weak, down both 2 sequentially and YoY despite a near doubling of accounts and MTUs” and how “[c]rypto trading 3 revenue fell 78%, down more than the crypto industry average of ~40% and the decline of 4 Dogecoin trading of ~75%[,]” before concluding “we believe Robinhood has been overearning 5 and guidance will weaken for ’22.” J.P. Morgan also questioned why management “did not 6 disclose trading volumes,” finding it “peculiar for a company generating ~75% of revenue on 7 volumes,” but, nonetheless, suspecting “revenue per trade had been elevated [indicating] a weaker 8 business outlook.”

9 63. On this news, Robinhood’s stock declined nearly 10.5%, falling from $39.57 per 10 share on October 26, 2021 to close at $35.44 per share on October 27, 2021.

11 64. Then, on November 8, 2021, after the markets closed, Robinhood disclosed that it 12 had suffered a “data security incident” on November 3, 2021, admitting that an “unauthorized third 13 party” had obtained email addresses for approximately five million users and the full names of a 14 different group of about two million users, indicating that the attack potentially affected nearly 15 40% of Robinhood’s MAUs. What is more, Robinhood said the additional personal information 16 of 310 other users, including their names, dates of birth, and zip codes, were exposed, and within 17 that group, that 10 users suffered even “more extensive” breaches.

18 65. On this news, Robinhood’s stock declined further, falling over 3% on November 9, 19 2021 to close at $36.70 per share, before then falling another 6% to close at $34.49 the very next 20 day.

21 66. By the time this case was filed, and after Robinhood announced investigations into 22 reports of bank transfer issues and issues with customers accessing their accounts, the Company’s 23 stock traded as low as $17.08 per share, or over 55% below the $38 IPO offering price.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

67. Plaintiff repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained above as if fully set forth herein.

68. Plaintiff brings this action as a class action, pursuant to Rules 23(a) and 23(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, on behalf of a class consisting of all persons and entities that purchased, or otherwise acquired, Robinhood common stock issued in connection with the Company's IPO.

69. Excluded from the Class are: (i) Defendants; (ii) present or former executive officers of Robinhood, members of the Robinhood's Board, and members of their immediate families (as defined in 17 C.F.R. §229.404, Instructions (1)(a)(iii) and (1)(b)(ii)); (iii) any of the foregoing persons' legal representatives, heirs, successors, or assigns; and (iv) any entities in which Defendants have or had a controlling interest, or any affiliate of Robinhood.

70. The members of the Class are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. The Company's common stock was actively traded on the NYSE, a national securities exchange. While the exact number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiff at this

1 time, and can only be ascertained through appropriate discovery, Plaintiff believes that there are 2 hundreds or thousands of members in the Class. During the relevant time, millions of Robinhood
3 shares were publicly traded on the NASDAQ. Record owners and other members of the Class 4 may be identified from records maintained by Robinhood or its transfer agent and may be notified 5 of the pendency of this action by mail, using a form of notice similar to that customarily used in 6 securities class actions.

7 71. Plaintiff's claims are typical of the claims of Class members, who were all similarly 8 affected by Defendants' wrongful conduct in violation of the federal securities laws. Further, 9 Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of Class members and has retained counsel 10 competent and experienced in class and securities litigation.

11 72. Common questions of law and fact exist as to all members of the Class and 12 predominate over any questions solely affecting individual members of the Class. Among the 13 questions of law and fact common to the members of the Class are:

- 14 (a) whether Defendants violated the Securities Act;
- 15 (b) whether statements made by Defendants to the investing public 16 misrepresented material facts about the business, operations, and prospects 17 of Robinhood;
- 18 (c) whether statements made by Defendants to the investing public omitted 19 material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of 20 the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and
- 21 (d) the extent of damage sustained by Class members and the appropriate 22 measure of damages.

23 73. A class action is superior to all other available methods for the fair and efficient 24 adjudication of this controversy, since joinder of all members is impracticable. Further, as the 25 damages suffered by individual Class members may be relatively small, the expense and burden 26 of individual litigation makes it impossible for Class members to individually redress the wrongs 27 done to them. There will be no difficulty in the management of this action as a class action.

28

CLAIM ONE

For Violations of §11 of the Securities Act (Against All Defendants)

1
2
3
4 74. Plaintiff repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained above as if fully 5 set forth herein.

6 75. This claim is brought pursuant to §11 of the Securities Act, 15 U.S.C. §77k, on 7 behalf of the Class, against all Defendants. This is a non-fraud cause of action. Plaintiff does not 8 assert that Defendants committed intentional or reckless misconduct or that Defendants acted with 9 scienter or fraudulent intent.

10 76. The Offering Documents were inaccurate and misleading, contained untrue 11 statements of material facts, omitted facts necessary to make the statements made therein not 12 misleading, and omitted to state material facts required to be stated therein.

13 77. The Company is the registrant of the securities purchased by Plaintiff and the Class.
14 As such, the Company is strictly liable for the materially inaccurate statements contained in the 15 Offering Documents and the failure of the Offering Documents to be complete and accurate. By 16 virtue of the Offering Documents containing material misrepresentations and omissions of material 17 fact necessary to make the statements therein not false and misleading, Robinhood is liable under 18 §11 of the Securities Act to Plaintiff and the Class.

19 78. The Individual Defendants each signed the Offering Documents and caused its 20 issuance. As such, each is strictly liable for the materially inaccurate statements contained in the 21 Offering Documents and the failure of the Offering Documents to be complete and accurate, unless 22 they are able to carry their burden of establishing an affirmative “due diligence” defense. The 23 Individual Defendants each had a duty to make a reasonable and diligent investigation of the 24 truthfulness and accuracy of the statements contained in the Offering Documents and ensure that 25 they were true and accurate, there were no omissions of material facts that would make the 26 Offering Documents misleading, and the documents contained all facts required to be stated 27 therein. In the exercise of reasonable care, the Individual Defendants should have known of the 28 material misstatements and omissions contained in the Offering Documents and also should have

1 known of the omissions of material fact necessary to make the statements made therein not 2 misleading. Accordingly, the Individual Defendants are liable to Plaintiff and the Class.

3 79. The Underwriter Defendants each served as underwriters in connection with the 4 IPO. As such, each is strictly liable for the materially inaccurate statements contained in the 5 Offering Documents and the failure of the Offering Documents to be complete and accurate, unless 6 they are able to carry their burden of establishing an affirmative “due diligence” defense. The 7 Underwriter Defendants each had a duty to make a reasonable and diligent investigation of the 8 truthfulness and accuracy of the statements contained in the Offering Documents. They had a duty 9 to ensure that such statements were true and accurate, there were no omissions of material facts 10 that would make the Offering Documents misleading, and the documents contained all facts 11 required to be stated therein. In the exercise of reasonable care, the Underwriter Defendants should 12 have known of the material misstatements and omissions contained in the Offering Documents 13 and also should have known of the omissions of material facts necessary to make the statements 14 made therein not misleading. Accordingly, each of the Underwriter Defendants is liable to 15 Plaintiff and the Class.

16 80. Defendants acted negligently in preparing the Offering Documents. None of the 17 Defendants named in this Claim made a reasonable investigation or possess reasonable grounds 18 for the belief that the statements contained in the Offering Documents were true and without 19 omission of any material facts and were not misleading. In alleging the foregoing, Plaintiff 20 specifically disclaims any allegation of fraud.

21 81. By reasons of the conduct herein alleged, each Defendant named in this claim 22 violated §11 of the Securities Act.

23 82. None of the untrue statements or omissions of material fact in the Offering 24 Documents alleged herein was a forward-looking statement. Rather, each such statement 25 concerned existing facts. Moreover, the Offering Documents did not properly identify any of the 26 untrue statements as forward-looking statements and did not disclose information that undermined 27 the putative validity of these statements.

28

1 83. Plaintiff acquired the Company's securities pursuant or traceable to the Offering 2 Documents and without knowledge of the untruths and/or omissions alleged herein. Plaintiff
3 sustained damages, and the price of the Company's shares declined substantially due to material 4 misstatements in the Offering Documents.

5 84. This Claim is brought within one year after the discovery of the untrue statements 6 and omissions and within three years of the date of the Offering.

7 85. By virtue of the foregoing, Plaintiff and the other members of the Class are entitled 8 to damages under §11, as measured by the provisions of §11(e), from the Defendants and each of 9 them, jointly and severally.

10 CLAIM TWO

11 For Violations of §12(a) of the Securities Act
12 (Against All Defendants)

13 86. Plaintiff repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained above, as if fully 14 set forth herein.

15 87. By means of the defective Prospectus, Defendants promoted, solicited, and sold 16 Robinhood shares to Plaintiff and other members of the Class.

17 88. The Prospectus for the IPO contained untrue statements of material fact, and 18 concealed and failed to disclose material facts, as detailed above. Defendants owed Plaintiff, and 19 the other members of the Class who purchased Robinhood shares pursuant to the Prospectus, the 20 duty to make a reasonable and diligent investigation of the statements contained in the Prospectus, 21 to ensure that such statements were true and that there was no omission to state a material fact 22 required to be stated, in order to make the statements contained therein not misleading.
23 Defendants, in the exercise of reasonable care, should have known of the misstatements and 24 omissions contained in the Prospectus, as set forth above.

25 89. Plaintiff did not know, nor in the exercise of reasonable diligence could Plaintiff 26 have known, of the untruths and omissions contained in the Prospectus at the time Plaintiff 27 acquired Robinhood shares.

28

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, on Plaintiff’s own behalf and on behalf of the Class, prays for relief and judgement as follows:

A. Declaring that this action is a proper class action, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23, certifying Plaintiff as a representative of the Class, and designating Plaintiff’s counsel as Class Counsel;

B. Awarding Plaintiff and the other members of the Class compensatory damages;

C. Awarding Plaintiff and the other members of the Class rescission on their §12(a)(2) claims;

D. Awarding Plaintiff and the other members of the Class pre-judgment and post-judgment interest, as well as reasonable attorneys’ fees, expert witness fees, and other costs and disbursements; and

E. Awarding Plaintiff and the other members of the Class such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

DEMAND FOR TRIAL BY JURY

Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 38(b), Plaintiff hereby demands a trial by jury of all issues that may be so tried.
